Country Band Exile Reunites After 23 Years

October 1, 2008

Exile, the country band which had 10 No. 1 country singles in the mid '80s, has reunited and will release an EP later this month. All five members -- J.P. Pennington, Sonny LeMaire, Les Taylor, Steve Goetzman and Marlon Hargis -- are taking part in the project, with tour dates also expected. They played their first show together in 23 years in June during a charity concert in Lexington, Ky. The band's hits include "Give Me One More Chance," as well as the 1978 pop hit, "Kiss You All Over."
